DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 96-100, 102, 103, 113 and 133-136, 161, drawn to a method for reducing the allergenicity of nuts, classified in class 426, subclass 632.
- II. Claims 104-106, 113, 114, 137-139, 140, 162 drawn to a method of reducing the allergenicity of food containing egg allergens classified in class 426, subclass 614.
- III. Claims 107-110, 115, 127-130, 141-144, 163 drawn to a method for reducing the allergenicity of undissolved milk allergens classified in class 426, subclass 580.
- IV. Claims 111-112, 116, 117, 145, 146-148, 164, drawn to a method of reducing the allergenicity of vaccine components, classified in class 424, subclass 181.1 +.
- V. Claims 118-120, 149-152, 165 drawn to a method of reducing the allergenicity of grains, classified in class 426, subclass 656.
- VI. Claims 121-126, 131, 153-156, drawn to a method of treating supper allergens and product thereof, classified in class 426, subclass 643.
- VII. Claims drawn to 127-130, 132, 157-160, classified in class 426, subclass 587.

Art Unit: 1761

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-VII are directed to or related by the feature that each food group is treated with super critical fluid or critical liquid gas. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, one cannot say that in treating the distinct food groups, with super critical fluid, that it is obvious to treat all foods with super critical fluid because each food group as shown by the different groupings contain different materials that cause allergies.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species: plant, animal, bacterial, fungal, viral as in claim 111. The species are independent or distinct because they contain different allergens.

Art Unit: 1761

Also, claims 122-126 contains claims to the following patentably distinct species, tree nuts, lobster, shrimp or peanuts. The species are independent or distinct because they contain different allergens.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 111 and 121 are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).
